

Adolph Eckman Held for Trial on Murder Charge

NEW YORK CROWD BURNS I. W. W. RED FLAG

WALWORTH COUNTY FARMER TO FACE JURY FOR KILLING

DECISION FOLLOWS ALL DAY HEARING AT ELKHORN.

STORIES DIFFER

Versions of Shooting of Carl Fritz Differ as Witnesses Take Stand.

(By Staff Correspondent.)
Elkhorn.—A twelve man jury, at the September term of Walworth county circuit court, will try Adolph Eckman, 54, Walworth county farmer, to determine what punishment shall be meted out for the alleged murder of Carl Fritz, Johnston, July 15, or whether he will go free.

After a hearing lasting until 8:20 p. m. Friday, Justice Charles Williams, who held the hearing, has not yet committed, and ordered that Eckman be held for trial at the next term of circuit court, on a charge of murder. Application for bonds will be made as once to Judge E. B. Belden, Racine.

Stories Contradictory.
The decision of the court was a surprise to many who felt Eckman would either go free or be ordered tried for manslaughter, the state having failed to show that the crime was premeditated.

Two absolutely different stories of the events immediately preceding the shooting at the Eckman home on Sunday afternoon a week ago were told during the hearing with Mrs. Eckman, who held the hearing, and Ador Carlson, co-claiming in a story which carried out Eckman's contention of self defense, and the other told by Mrs. Esther Fritz, widow of the dead man, which pictures her husband as being deliberately shot by the farmer, who for years was a friend of the slain man.

Adolph Eckman's attitude after the shooting was not that of a man who repented of a misdeed, but was cold, brutal, she testified. She declared he sat on the porch and cursed, offering to pay to stand in an area of blood of the man whom he had shot, and remained until he died. Neighbors testified to his cursing.

Not since Fred L. McBride was sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Edward Thibault in the mystery of "Miraculous escape" has Walworth county evidenced so much interest in court procedure. Throughout the day crowds packed the circuit court room, with some sitting on the floor, others standing along.

ALASKAN AID PROGRAM IS LAID DOWN

(By Associated Press.)
Seattle.—The Alaskan program of President Harding, evolved from his first hand study of conditions in the territory, embraces in the main:

Measures for conservation of salmon fisheries; removal of some of the restrictions on utilization of the forests; grant of more liberal appropriations for road building; encouragement in agricultural experimentation; and retention of the Alaskan railroad by the government.

The chief executive presented his program and a report on his two years' visit to the territory in an address delivered here late Friday. He declared emphatically he had found no "Alaskan problem," but that "Alaska is all right and doing well."

CONVICTION OF RUMLEY IS UPHOLD

(By Associated Press.)
New York.—The United States circuit court of appeal, Saturday affirmed the conviction of Dr. Edward E. Rumley, former publisher of The New York Evening Mail, and S. Walter Kaufman, for mail frauding the alien property custodian on a report on The Mail ownership. The three were ordered to pay fines to serve sentences of a year and a day each.

FRENCH MAY FREE BADGER

(By Associated Press.)
Paris.—The American embassy is seeking information about John Louis Ayotte of Sheboygan, Wis., who is serving a sentence for having the embassy's object is to present an application for clemency to the French government, as instructed from Washington.

When a doughboy, Ayotte married Miss Lorraine Chalmers Scott, and took her home with him, but they returned to France on appeals from John Jones Jr., Wisconsin Commissioner of Agriculture.

STATE LIQUOR FORCES IN DEFIANCE OF LAW

(By Associated Press.)
Madison.—An unlawful organization of growing political and commercial importance, developed at the expense of Wisconsin communities, is evident in the moonshining and bootlegging business spreading over the state, Herman Sechtjen, prohibition commissioner declared Friday.

The prohibition department has evidence to show that a centralized industry is growing up through concealment and protection of the unlicensed liquor forces, Commissioner Sechtjen said. Amateur moonshining on a small scale is passing gradually, he asserted, because of the competition of "big business" within the unlawful industry.

Get Out Politics.
At the same time a big illicit liquor business is developing, a political organization of importance is taking shape among those engaged in manufacturing moonshine, according to the prohibition department head.

Where formerly isolated moonshiners were distilling liquor in some sections of the state, there now is a big organization, with wholesale houses, and retailing bootleggers scattered over Wisconsin, distributing illicit liquor, according to the state prohibition department.

One agent of this general organization is said to be working in the state capital building, and another at the university, while several men are making rounds of dance halls and barn gatherings about the state. The rest of Wisconsin is reported to be equally well organized.

Difficult Enforcement.
Prohibition enforcement is becoming more difficult, the commissioner said. (Continued on page 10)

THIRD PARTY IF HARDING WINS IS LA FOLLETTE WORD

Washington.—Declaring that President Harding's administration had been a "reactionary administration," Senator La Follette, republican, Wisconsin, held a press conference Friday, that should "reactionaries" be nominated for the presidency next year by both major parties, a third party movement may result.

The conditions which insured the election of Marcus Johnson to the senate from Minnesota, he said, exist generally throughout the country including the east.

He insisted, however, that it still was too early to predict with certainty whether a third party movement in 1924 would result.

The senator declined to discuss his own candidacy, a third party nominee or to mention any other names in that connection, indicating he would reserve any announcement of his intentions until his return from this forthcoming trip abroad.

FOUR KILLED IN COLLISION

Quebec.—Reports received here state that four men had been killed in a railway collision on the east bound trans-continental train near Picard Saturday morning.

FARM BUREAU WOMEN ELECT

(By Associated Press.)
Madison.—Women members of the Wisconsin farm bureau federation, organized into county and township groups, held a state meeting here Friday afternoon and formed a temporary state organization. The new women groups will confine their work chiefly along lines of community development, social work and marketing.

Following are temporary officers elected: Chairman, Mrs. Harry Berger, Waubesa; vice chairman, Mrs. R. W. Jenkins, Fond du Lac; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Harry Spooner, Evansville.

At another meeting, the temporary organization will be made permanent and organization undertaken.

Marion Tells His Own Story; Letter Assails Critics

The following letter has been received by the editor of the Gazette from the Rev. Leland L. Marion, Whiting, Ind., former pastor of the Christian church here, whose marriage to Mrs. Ben Sarow has been made illegal under Wisconsin law through the setting aside of Mrs. Sarow's divorce by Judge George Gilman:

You have been most considerate in giving me front page write-ups in your paper this last week. You have not spared yourself in giving the public the sayings of others in condemning my past life, so I hope you will be so kind as to give me space to make a few remarks and corrections.

Being a minister, it seems that I ought to have wings and never do anything contrary to the opinions of others. These so-called angelic beings in their own minds, who never err and who are always ready to advise others are always people who are unable to govern their own tongues and homes and stand around and condemn others. This is true concerning my "best friend" who has stood out and censured my life of the past. If they would have taken care of their own business this last year instead of trying to run my life they would not have had at the present time so many low-down lies to answer for on the coming judgment day.

I remarked that I might have a help-meet in the biggest work on earth, and one to help care for my family. It is a lie that I ever asked the woman I married to leave her husband and get a divorce, that she might marry me. I never so much as asked her if she would marry me. (Continued on page 4)

HARDING PARTY ON WAY TO YOSEMITE

(By Associated Press.)
On Board President Harding's Special Train.—After a rail and water trip of more than 8,000 miles to Alaska, Canada, and return to Seattle, President Harding was again on board the train which left Washington, June 29, traveling with his official party along the Pacific coast range south to the Yosemite park, California. He and Mrs. Harding spent the day in relaxation from the hurried and strenuous program of Friday in Seattle occasioned by the delayed arrival at that port of the train. President Harding, in turn, caused by impetuous fog on the water north of Fort Townsend, Wash.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS A STUDY CLUB SAYS LAWRENCE PERFECTLY HARMLESS THOUGH FILLED WITH HIGH AMBITIONS.

NOT MUCH TO DO
Waits for Nations to Send Over Little Things to Talk About.

(By Associated Press.)
Denver.—Doors of the Hibernia Bank and Trust company are closed and three young men, well known in Denver financial circles spent Friday night in jail following the discovery Friday of a shortage in the bank's funds, estimated to be between $400,000 and $500,000.

These taken to jail were Leo P. Ford, secretary of the company; John Harrington, teller; son of M. C. Harrington, vice president of the bank; and R. M. Mandell, head of Mandell and company, investment brokers.

District Attorney Philip Van Cise said charges against the trio would be filed Saturday.

More arrests loom in the case, according to bank examiners, who are investigating the affairs of the institution.

Detectors who have been called into help unravel the financial tangle, intimated that "the woman in the case" is being sought. Her name was not revealed.

28 Miners Entombed by Blast

(By Associated Press.)
Sheffield, England.—Twenty-eight men were entombed by an explosion Saturday night in the Malby colliery, where a fire has been causing trouble for several weeks.

The terrific nature of the explosion made any operations to get in communication with the men impossible for some time but rescue parties were on hand. Distressing scenes were witnessed at the pit mouth, where women and children were anxiously awaiting news of relatives.

One hundred men were working the mine, 28 of them at the far end of the gallery, near the first level. The force of the blast brought down such quantities of stone and coal dust as to cut off the 28 miners.

LUTHERANS MEET HERE

One hundred delegates from 39 Lutheran churches will meet in Janesville Aug. 28, 29 and 30. The churches are members of the Lutheran Sunday School association. This conference will take in the Synod of the Northwest. Delegates will meet at the St. Peter's Lutheran church on the corner of Jackson street. Members of the congregation will house them.

U. S. MARKET AGENCY URGED

(By Associated Press.)
Eldon, Ia.—A government marketing agency, which is possible by speedy and drastic action, at a special session of congress is necessary to save agriculture from the impending calamity. Senator Smith, W. Brookhart said here Saturday. He was addressing the farmers' union picnic.

"This government marketing agency will offer only temporary relief," Senator Brookhart said. "A complete remedy is found in cooperative control of production, processing, credit and marketing by the farmers themselves."

HALT BETTING IN OHIO MEET

(By Associated Press.)
Columbus, O.—A temporary restraining order against the Columbus Driving Park Association, preventing it from permitting betting or gambling upon the driving park grounds during the present grand circuit meeting or during any race meet, until the case can be heard on its merits, was issued here Saturday by Judge Eastman of common pleas court.

THREE JAILED AS HALF MILLION IS MISSED IN BANK

OFFICIALS ARRESTED IN DENVER FINANCIAL ENTANGLEMENT.

REDS IN GERMANY SUBDUED ACTIVITY

(By Associated Press.)
Berlin.—Fritz Thyssen, the Ruhr industrial magnate, visited Altona Saturday and Sunday, and discussed with him the situation in the Ruhr area. Food shortage in the Ruhr area.

(By Associated Press.)
Berlin.—After federal and state officials, a Sunday detailed plans for subduing political outbreaks of all kinds in the present critical circumstances, the German bolshevik leaders late Friday night decided to suspend their activities.

The order issued by the United Socialist Workers' party, headquarters to all members to avoid communist demonstrations, is believed to have helped in impeding the communists to whittle down the order. The bolsheviks held test meetings have been ordered confined to indoor gatherings, which will be watched closely by the police.

The descending mark still is creating havoc. The practice of listing prices on a dollar basis, is becoming almost universal and there prevails an acute shortage in stocks of all lines, due to hoarding by the public during the last few months. Potatoes, flour and other agricultural staples are being held by the grocers and distributors in the provinces through fear of communist uprisings and that shipments of food will be confiscated.

Wide propagandizing by the reds during the past week is responsible for this apprehension.

REDS SEIZE U. S. SCHOONER

(By Associated Press.)
Nome, Alaska.—A story of duplicity and double-dealing of a swash-buckling soviet representative who boarded the schooner Iscom, of Tacoma, July 1, and assumed charge of her, was told by Captain Putta of the trading schooner Iscom, of Tacoma, which arrived here Wednesday after the captain had been held overpowered the soviet guards and fled from Nady to Nome.

The Iscom, after being interned at weeks by the red authorities, reached here with the youthful armed guards from the red army praying they would not be returned to Russia, for fear of losing their lives. It was believed the men would be taken to Tacoma, if arrangements could be made.

SEE SEPARATE LONDON REPLY TO GERMANY

(By Associated Press.)
London.—The opinion that Great Britain will eventually be obliged to send its own reply to Germany without cooperation from France and Belgium, is strengthened by the latest reports from Paris.

Some observers here think the attitude of Belgium, the aim of which is described by the diplomatic correspondent of the Daily Telegraph as an "attempt to bridge the gulf between the British and French standpoints," may keep the allies together to maintain a united front toward Germany.

The Belgian reply to Great Britain is expected to be delayed a day or two longer than the French reply. It is anticipated will be delivered in London, Saturday or Sunday.

HOBOKEN CITIZENS STORM QUARTERS OF PORT STRIKERS

RAIDERS DRAG BANNER FROM POLE AND BURN IT.

SCATTER PAPERS

Indignant Action Follows Refusal to Hoist Stars and Stripes.

New York.—A crowd Saturday stormed Hoboken headquarters of the Industrial Workers of the World, whose longshoremen are on strike, and tore down the red flag of the organization floating over the building.

The flag, flown despite protests of Hoboken citizens, who demanded that the Stars and Stripes also be raised, was burned after it has been torn down, according to New York headquarters of the I. W. W., which announced it had telegraphed a protest to Governor Seligman of New Jersey.

New York headquarters charged that the attack had been made by members of the International Longshoremen's association, who had called back those of its members who had walked out.

The attacking force numbered about 50. Five clerks in the offices of the Industrial Workers of the World division of the I. W. W. were able to cope with the situation and stood silently by while the raiders buried their literature out of the window.

DEMPSEY TO FIGHT FIRPO ON SEPT. 14

(By Associated Press.)
New York.—Champion Jack Dempsey will meet Jimmie Fipps of Argentina in a 15-round fight to decide for the world heavyweight championship at the Polo grounds, Sept. 14. Promoter Tex Rickard announced Saturday. Prices range from $3 to $25, the lowest on record for a championship bout and half that of the Dempsey-Carpenter tickets. A crowd of 80,000 is expected, after Rickard completes construction of the new stands around the ringside.

OUSTED NP TO PUSH BATTLE

Oklahoma City.—George Wilson, reconstructionist leader, removed Friday from the presidency of Oklahoma A. S. college, after a bitter fight at the close of which Governor J. C. Walton reversed himself on the appointment, entered Saturday on his campaign to carry his cause "to the grass roots."

Speaking at Muskogee, Friday night, Governor Walton declared Wilson was the tool of Oscar Ameringer, a "bitter" of the reconstructionist league state organ here.

"Radicalism will never sweep Oklahoma, so long as I can prevent it," the governor said.

MARIE PRICE WILL TESTIFY

Cleveland.—Marie Price, who accompanied John Z. Whitfield on his flight after the death of Patrolman Dennis Griffin, will be placed on the stand when Whitfield's trial, on the charge of first degree murder, is resumed Monday. State Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton declared Saturday. The court was not in session Saturday.

Other witnesses will include Mrs. Clara Briel, who claimed Whitfield shot her while he was believed to be digging the grave where Griffin's body was found.

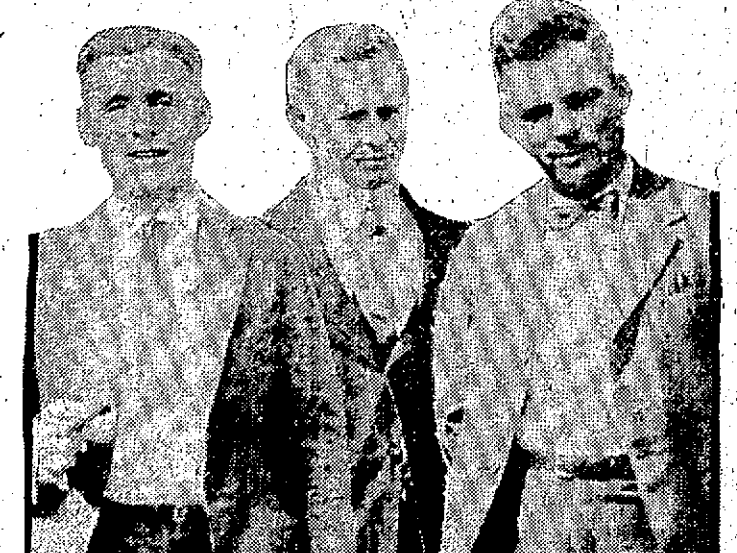

Coroner A. P. Hammond testified Friday that Griffin was killed by a bullet fired from a .45 calibre revolver. This contradicts statements made by the defendants that the officer was accidentally shot with his own gun, a .38 calibre police revolver. When Griffin pressed "it" against Whitfield's side and the latter knocked his arm upwards.

SPED AWAY FROM WRECK

Charged with driving away from an accident in which his car figured, John Gull, 43, 122 Belmont avenue, Janesville, was arrested by deputy sheriff of Winnebago county in Rockford this week and is being held for trial.

LOCAL FAIRS ARE FARM CONVENTIONS

Season Starts With County Fair At Evansville—Many Entries Made.

By LEWIS C. FRENCH

Fair time starts next week and every person who has any pride in his own particular county will be at the county fairs.

Rock county has particular interest in the county fairs because they are testing grounds for the livestock being taken out in "fast company," competing against the cream of the county show herds.

There is some question as to how the respective county herds will line up against the crack aggregations of the state.

The present line of county banner numbers about 35 head, of which 25 will be dairy animals.

But there is no need to worry about out-of-state competition at the state fair; there will be plenty at home to make it interesting.

There will be a big lineup of Short-horns, for J. J. McLean & Sons, Langdon, Minn., are showing a herd.

Rock county swine breeders will be called upon to put in real exhibits.

That's the coffee I want—GONA.

TRAVEL AT EASE; DO IT BY BOOKS

Dustless, Peaceful, Mosquito-less and Economical is Road of Printed Page.

To hear many vacationists talk, the question of money is seemingly unthought-of. Possibly it is—some people have hard all year so they may afford a good vacation, and perhaps when they are away, they are all for a complete rest from worries, financial and otherwise.

Figures at the Janesville public library show many people enjoy a cheap vacation—without "mosquitos" over the word enjoy. This is by means of the many and excellent travel books that are offered. It is a blessing indeed to be that kind of a reader who becomes so engrossed in his reading that his mind is completely in his book.

PERSISTENT SUITOR SLAIN

Morris, Ill.—Persistent attentions to Miss Jane Remington ended in the fatal shooting Thursday night of James Blaney Beach, 40, a merchant of Joliet. He was shot twice and killed almost instantly by Deputy Sheriff Clay Harrod, to whom the young woman had appealed when she saw Beach lurking near her home.

CIGARETTE STUB STARTS FIRE ON WAY TO BARN

Orfordville—The fire alarm was turned in about 6 o'clock Thursday evening and the fire department went to the Jacob Blumer farm, just west of the village limits. The fall threshing was being done and for an hour the workers had been smoking. So evident was the presence of fire that the owner of the threshing machine was preparing to remove the stub from the farm. At last the fire was discovered. The fire's location was discovered. The discovery was made simultaneous with the arrival of the fire department.

WATCHMAN IS SHOT TO DEATH BY SON

St. Louis—Burton E. Barrett, 41, a watchman, was shot and killed Friday by his son, Harold, 21, as he sat in the lobby of the Boatman's bank building in the downtown district. The son was arrested, and according to the police said he shot his father because the latter had been abusive and had threatened to kill him and other members of the family with a hammer.

Peter B. Kyne's "The Go-Getter" and it is one of the latest Paramount productions. It ranks high among the new series, and is little below "The Covered Wagon" in quality, although, of course, the type is entirely different. While "The Covered Wagon" is an epic of early American western life, "The Go-Getter" is a shapely up-to-date comedy, with an eye for the modern.

T. Roy Darnes plays the part of Bill.

TENT SIX WINNER IN CAMP BASEBALL

Other Sports Enliven Week at Rotaridale; Competition Is Keen.

Competitive baseball teams at Rotaridale camp take a lively interest in the game. The camp championship was played off Wednesday afternoon and tent 6 won. A letter received from Arthur Hanrahan tells the story.

Wednesday afternoon all the campers gathered around the baseball field to watch one of the most closely contested games of the season. They were kept on edge all the way through. The game ended the way for tent 6 in the final run for tent 6. This left the count 7 to 6 with tent 2 on the small end. Tent 6 won the game.

The lineup:
Tent 6
Donald Wright, C
Sager, P
Morris, 1B
R. Newell, 2B
J. Bromberg, SS
C. Porter, 3B
E. Porter, LF
Earl Anderson, RF
Grandis Heffernan leads in the batting average. He has won three games so far.

Competition for the tent honor banner is very keen. Tent 1 nosed out tent 3 by a fraction of a point. Tent 1 has a total of 58 1/2 points and tent 3 has 57 1/2.

For the table tent 6 wins out on top with 17 1/2. Then comes 3 with 17 1/2 and 2 with 17 1/2.

Wednesday was Rotary day at camp. From 4:30 on they began to arrive until there were 105 present. The campers picked an all-star team and played the Rotary team. R. O. Holt and Wm. McNeil starred for the Rotarians. The Rotary team won the match 5 to 2.

When we drove into the Beckman yard, Mrs. Beckman was on a side porch feeding the chickens, and a neighbor girl was helping.

"Entered House Peaceably."
"My husband got out of the car and walked over to a tree (Oscar Johnson) who was lying under a tree. They spoke very friendly and the two walked to the house together. Mr. Johnson opened the door and they walked into the house together."

"Was the door shut in your husband's face?" the district attorney asked.

"No sir, Mr. Johnson held the screen door open for my husband," was Mrs. Fritz reply.

"I sat watching the cars coming down the road. I looked up and saw the car coming back towards out of the kitchen door."

"Was anyone pushing him?" the state's representative broke in.

"No," Mrs. Fritz answered.

"He backed down the steps. I noticed Beckman with a gun in his hand, coming out the door, carrying it like this, (indicating a charge position). I walked something about 100 feet and I jumped out of the car and ran towards the house. I stepped in front of my husband, thinking he (Beckman) would not shoot."

"The gun went off and Mr. Beckman said, 'There,' I saw."

broken at when Fritz struck Beckman over the back with it, about three minutes after Fritz had come into the room. Attorney Charles Summer attempted to get an estimate of the time the whole quarrel and shooting took, but the Swedish boy said he couldn't say.

Carlson identified the shotgun, offered in two pieces, as state's exhibit 1 and 2.

Lapses of Memory.
Mrs. Beckman made a good witness for her husband, but her lapses of memory on questions vital to the state's case against her husband was noticeable. Sometimes the district attorney would ask six or seven questions in rapid succession, to which he only answered was "I can't remember." Mrs. Beckman maintained the fight over the churning dasher brought out that she had previously told him that it was in the kitchen.

G. W. Posey, county highway engineer, gave dimensions of the house, the kitchen and the rooms at the Beckman home. The porch at which the shooting took place is at the rear. Dr. Albert Hoffman, Sharon, said Fritz was dark colored and had the Beckman place, and said he noticed the blood on the grounds and the planks which led to the woodshed.

Es said he gave Mrs. Beckman some pills for her nervousness and examined her neck, which was red, and noticed her hair was mussed up, bringing out her contention that Fritz attacked her.

Mrs. Fritz Called.
The courtroom spectators were alert when District Attorney Godfrey asked, "Is Mrs. Fritz in the room?"

"Yes," she suggested they stop at the Beckman farm. Mrs. Fritz said her husband had suggested that they go to Delavan, where they planned to take a milk check to her parents.

Mr. Fritz suggested they stop at the Beckman home for the rubber boots which he had spoken about so many times.

Carlson standing looking out of the door, but didn't see Johnson after he entered the house with my husband. Mrs. Beckman was not standing on the porch."

"My husband fell where he stood. The blood spots on the south side of the porch, opened the door and asked, 'Can I use the telephone?'

Mr. Beckman said, 'No, get out of here!' and Mrs. Beckman shut the door in my face."

"I grabbed a towel, I don't know from where, and wrapped it around my head, and ran as fast as I could to Widemer's (who live across the road) and asked them to call a doctor as my husband was shot."

"Mr. Beckman sat on the steps and cursed and swore at Mr. Widemer and I attempted to help my husband."

Asked by the district attorney how she happened to see Beckman with the gun, Mrs. Fritz said:

"I turned to see where Beckman was for fear I'd be shot also. He turned into the house with the gun. It wasn't broken then."

Mrs. Fritz testified she didn't pay much attention to Beckman's swearing in "her scare and sorrow," but she did remember hearing him call her husband a vile name.

"I was trying to get my husband to speak to me before he passed away."

Mrs. Fritz said she didn't hear any loud talking and was positive that there was no fighting on the back porch.

The widow was very hesitant in answering some questions put by Attorney Godfrey in the cross-examination. She said Fritz, when she married him, was a "grass widow," having been divorced by a woman who is now Mrs. States Corning, living near Delavan. This first wife had died.

Knew of No Quarrel.
She said she knew of no ill feeling existing between her husband and Beckman on account of the boots, or the gun. Beckman claimed the gun had been stolen and that it was at his house. "My husband had told me he didn't think it was stolen." She said she didn't know that her husband had been forlidden to go to the Beckman home.

After considerable questioning and long silence, Mrs. Fritz said her husband got only two or three feet from the steps when shot by Beckman, who was standing there in the doorway of the porch.

William Widemer and his wife testified to Beckman's attitude after the shooting, and both said that none of those in the house helped Mrs. Fritz care for her husband.

Let the damn pup die," was his admonition to William Widemer, when the latter carried a bucket of water for Mrs.

Fritz to wash her husband's face. Widemer testified. Mrs. Widemer said he cursed when he saw Mrs. Fritz kiss her husband as he lay dying.

Clintus Self Defense.
Dr. Rood said that Eckman had told him that he was sorry he shot Fritz but that he did it in self defense. He said an examination of Mrs. Fritz dress showed powder marks, supporting her contention that the bullet barely missed her and struck her husband.

B. C. Woodford, Darlen town chairman, who went to the house with Sheriff Hal Wylie, said Eckman told him he got into a tiff with Fritz and the gun went off accidentally in the kitchen.

"I said, 'Where is the blood, Eckman?' He didn't know what to say. There wasn't any blood in the kitchen," Mrs. Fritz spoke up and said, 'I'll tell you how it happened. You shot my husband and the gun was broken when you shot my husband.' Eckman admitted he did shoot, but claimed it was accidental. I think Eckman said Mrs. Fritz was telling the truth."

Wylie On Stand.
Sheriff Wylie testified Eckman had told him the shooting was done in the kitchen and that he had remarked there was no blood there and then he thought it might have been done in the kitchen door. "I went outside," he said, "where the blood was on the ground, and said to Eckman, 'It looks like this was where the man was shot.' Mrs. Fritz spoke up and said, 'That's right, Mister, that's where my husband was killed.' Mrs. Fritz said the gun was not broken when her husband was shot and Eckman didn't deny it."

The Walworth county sheriff said an examination of Eckman's back had been made, but no marks indicating that he had been struck were found.

SAYS UNION MAY BLACKLIST FAIR

Hiring Fairies Band of Beloit Stirs up Bower City Musicians.

Warning that the Janesville Fair board, the Orfordville and Edgerton bands and theatrical performers appearing at the fair would be thrown upon the unfair list and the American Federation of Musicians if the Fair board hired the Bower City band, was made by Charles Weber, manager of the Bower City band, to members of the Janesville Fair board Friday night.

Included upon the unfair list and reported as antagonistic to organized labor the appearance of the Fair board's band at the fair, said Manager Weber, would place the performers and the unions bands in a difficult situation. In the event the union Orfordville and Edgerton bands play, they will be liable to fines by the union and may be prohibited from competing with union organizations in the future. The same would apply to the free attractions which have been secured by the fair board, he claimed.

That the Bower City band's refusal to play Janesville Day was based upon reluctance of members to play for one day only, instead of the entire fair period, was the statement Saturday.

"The fair board offered us a one day engagement," said Mr. Weber. "Instead of the four day engagement as in the past. Most of the boys felt that they would rather not play at all rather than just one day. The organization did not object to playing with out side bands as has been reported."

The price we made to the board was the same as in previous years, $6 per day for each member and $12 for the leader. We also asked for the future. The same word the board was reluctant to allow.

While not approached definitely on playing also at the night fair, the rate of the band for evening is $12.50 for each day, with an additional $3 per man and $6 for the leader.

No Despair in Minnesota Says Tourist

New cars and wonderful buildings but nothing of the disastrous picture of despair painted by Senator Elmer Magnus Johnson of Minnesota was seen by Harold J. Dane, a tourist from Janesville, Minn., who returned early Saturday morning after a 1300 mile automobile trip with his wife and two children.

Mr. Dane, who is a resident of Janesville, Minn., and from there to Iowa City, down to Rockville and home enroute to the west. They were on the road, but three days and nights, and they had a "highway marking system," Mr. Dane said. "Minnesota's system is good. Iowa goes on the theory you will find a sign on a road until you meet another sign. We saw much beautiful country and the best was between Baraboo and La Crosse. Iowa's dirt roads were the worst but next to them are those around Madison."

Janesville Firm Will Pave 17,000 Feet in Edgerton

Edgerton. — Seventeen thousand feet of paving will be laid this year, two-thirds of which will be reinforced concrete and the remainder vibrofiltrite concrete. The contract has been given to H. J. Fournier, Janesville, who will move onto the job the first of August, immediately after finishing the $50,000 job at Watertown. The Edgerton work will amount to $55,000. A. W. Ellis, Janesville, is engineer. The streets to be paved are: Randolph, Perry, Jensen, North Third, Victoria Road and Saunders Creek to Albion Road, which will be reinforced concrete, and High street from East of East Catlin will be paved with vibrofiltrite concrete. Ten thousand lineal feet of curb gutter will also be put in.

Moonshine Was Left by Boarder?

Confiscating over two cases of home brew besides nearly a pint of moonshine police Saturday morning raided the house of Mrs. Mary Travis, 308 Dodge street. Arraigned before Judge H. L. Maxfield in municipal court she pleaded not guilty and her hearing set for 10 a. m. Monday, July 30.

Conducted by Officers Porter, Lenartz and O'Leary, the raid was one of the most successful of the year. The home brew was discovered in the pantry and the moonshine in an iron chest. Several empty bottles were also taken.

Upon her appearance in court Mrs. Travis claimed that she manufactured the brew for her husband, who has been sick for some years. She also claimed the moonshine had been left in her house by one of the boarders who has been on a drunk lately.

Two File Claims Against County

Two claims against Rock county as the result of accidents have been filed with the county clerk, one for $350 and the other for $32.75. Both claims reflect in the highway caused by the accidents.

Christ Christensen claims $350 for damage to his automobile and his wife's clothes when part of the embankment of the railroad at Magnolia Ave., in the city of Janesville, gave way throwing his automobile into the ditch. The accident occurred July 14.

Edward James Millard, Elkhorn, had $32.75 repairs on his automobile as the result of an accident on County Trunk D between Afton and Janesville. The car was washed away and could not be seen at night. Mr. Millard claims and his car was damaged when attempting to pass one driving by E. P. Gates, Beloit.

Two Win Badges; Webster Children Form Booster Club

A boy and a girl passed the badge test at Jefferson playgrounds Saturday morning. They are Lowell Lovth and Iva Tron.

Tests at Douglas and Webster grounds were postponed Friday on account of rain to Monday at 1:30 p. m.

A booster club of Webster girls was organized Friday night at the home of Mrs. Grace Thwing, director. The officers are: Virginia Hoffman, president; Ruth Hemmings, secretary; Margaret Anderson, treasurer. A campaign will be put on by the club next week to round up money for the Webster grounds.

HORSES ARRIVING FOR COUNTY FAIR

25 Reach Evansville with More Coming; High School Band to Play.

Evansville — Twenty-five horses have arrived for the fair and more are coming every day. The race programs follow: Thursday 2:12 p. m., 17 entries; 2:30 trot, 14 entries; 2:25 pace, 19 entries. Friday 2:12 p. m., 30 entries; 2:13 trot, 13 entries; Saturday, 2:29 trot, 23 entries; free-for-all, 10 entries. R. T. Wiswell, Elkhorn, has been obtained to start the races and will also judge horses in the show ring. It is expected the best and largest cattle exhibits ever shown at the Rock county fair will be here this year. The management has rented several extra tents to accommodate.

With three fast races scheduled, the livestock judging started Thursday—Janesville day at the Rock county fair in Evansville will attract great attention. On Thursday the 2:12 pace with 17 entries and the 2:30 trot with 14 entries.

A. J. Crammer, Madison, will judge the livestock judging at either William Tink or J. F. Fuller, the beef breeds. The stock judging will start Thursday. All barn space has been reserved, with 100 stalls for horses and 100 stalls for sheep and Burle Dobson the swine.

Decided new spirit is evident in the arrangements for the county fair this year. The people looking this exhibition to the limit. The coming Evansville fair will be the 24th annual meeting of the Rock County Agricultural association held in Evansville.

State officials will be present with state exhibits of tuberculosis in cattle, showing how this disease affects the milk and meat of animals. Lectures will be given and questions answered.

The band schedule has been arranged as follows: Wednesday, Evansville High school band; Thursday, Stoughton band; Friday, New Glarus band; Saturday, Orfordville band.

Thursday will be Janesville day. At 8:30 p. m. there will be speaking by Prof. Humphrey of the State Agricultural college. Friday night, J. J. Jones, state agricultural commissioner will talk. There will be fireworks, band concerts, rides and a big midway at the fair every night.

The poultry department is seeking more entries this year, according to H. A. Blakeley, superintendent of the department. Three carloads of displays, one from Watertown, one from Beloit and one from Beloit, besides 40 crates of Beloit poultry breeds will arrive.

Electrocuted Man Buried Saturday

Funeral service for Frank Luftenstein, lineman for the Janesville Electric company, electrocuted while repairing a line, was held Friday afternoon. They were conducted by the Rev. D. H. Schooff. Pall bearers were electric company workers. Burial was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

Delavan Buses to Stop Aug. 1

Motor bus service between Janesville and Delavan will be discontinued next Wednesday by the Wisconsin Motor Bus line, it was announced Friday. Insurance companies, the heavy state vehicle tax and the Janesville tax are given as the reasons. These conditions make the line unprofitable, it is said. None of the other routes will be affected, however.

FOUR PATIENTS TOLD TO SEEK SANITARIUM

Sanatorium treatment for four patients was recommended as the result of the free chest clinic conducted Thursday at Orfordville by Miss Anna Luetscher under the auspices of the Orfordville Red Cross. Thirty-six were examined, which means 11 percent were found to have tuberculosis. Four others were reported as needing observation. Many came from afar, one from Brooklyn, another Clinton, and one who lives near Davis, Ill.

WHO OPENED GRAVE? STATE SAYS 'NO ONE,' MILTON IS AGOG

Discovery of what appeared to be a newly dug grave in the Milton cemetery Monday and reports of midnight prowlers in the graveyard, resulted in an immediate investigation of the case by District Attorney Skaggs.

The investigation was questioned on the "mystery" story, Saturday. Milton residents reported Tuesday the finding of what appeared to be a freshly dug grave for which no permit had been issued. Theft of tools from the tool house coupled with reports of lights seen late at night in the grounds led Milton residents to believe that burial concealment had been attempted.

According to Attorney Dunwiddie, who, the Milton Junction paper says, "was usual was not disposed to do anything," investigation showed the lot, owned by a Chicago man, had been recently graded, giving the appearance of a fresh grave.

Clothes and Statesmen.

If you hung the best suit of clothes made by an accomplished tailor on the back of a dishonest man it would not change him to an honest person. If you put overalls on Lloyd George he would still be Lloyd George. Clothes do not make the man, but as Old Grogan Graham said, they are important because they cover all but the hands and face. Once Joe Bailey, of Texas, gave it out plenty and plain that he would never,
no never, be seen wearing a dress suit at Washington. Others have been demagogical imitators of Bailey. Col. Brookhart, who wore a uniform when he was in the army, because that was the proper thing to do, emphatically stated to his constituents in Iowa, that he would walk down
the halls of congress wearing a pair of overalls
and never would wear a dress suit at any time.
Nobody gave a hinkler whether he did or not. It makes no difference in Brookhart whether he wears overalls or not. He probably could be just as good an American citizen and as equally an able legislator, if he abided by the ordinary amenities of life and put on a dress suit and went to a reception as though he wore overalls and spit tobacco juice on the rugs. So too, it may be said of Magnus Johnson. It is dollars to a cookie that Mr. Johnson would want her husband neatly dressed and maybe wear a suit fitting to the occasion, even though it were a swallow-tail. You can see how worried over the way he has his necktie skewed on.

These pronouncements about clothes are a legacy from the days of Davy Crockett and Sam Houston in congress. There was one of this kind in Ben LeFevre, of Ohio, who represented the "Hoop Pole District." He was in a marble bathtub one day when some Ohio friends called on him. He had the attendant drive them out and sent to his rooms for his old suit and soft hat since he was wearing broadcloth and a high silk "plug"
of those days, before he would see his constituents.
We have changed all that. You cannot tell a preacher nowadays by his frock coat and high hat
or his cravat. Nor is it de rigueur in congressmen to wear the frock coat and the silk hat. That is still a part of the English statesman's uniform, but the business suit and ordinary hat and shoes of every day life are seen on nearly all the members, both of the senate and the house. It remains for the south and southwest to trot out
the Prince Albert coat topped with a Stetson.

Much is said of Abraham Lincoln and plain clothes. But we are told that while he was careless—there was in those days no clothes pressing establishment at each corner—and his trousers were frequently baggy, the material and workmanship was of the best and he dressed in harmony with the occasion.

If the only asset of a statesman is that he will wear clothes of a certain kind he is pretty weak.
It is not what he has on the outside of his head
but on the inside, that counts. When it comes down to brass tacks the dress suit or overalls
are inconsequential details and all bunk as political issues.

The Fair Season Opens

From now on for nearly two months, some sixty fairs will be held in the state of Wisconsin.
Handed down to us from early days when the towns of England held market fairs and exhibited the best raised on the farms and the articles of skill made by the women, we have had such harvest gatherings. Or perhaps some will want to go back farther even than that, and say that fairs really began in the days of Ahasuerus, who held an exposition at Shushan the palace, where all manner of silks and luxuries were exhibited,
as told in the Book of Esther.

It was left to a citizen of Janesville to give a name to the first of the fairs to be held this season in Rock county and Southern Wisconsin. The promoters of the Evansville-Rock county fair have
with a keen sense of its advertising value
capitalized that remark made originally in contempt and this year the "Pumpkin Show" promises to outdo all previous exhibits. When the gates of the Rock county fair at Evansville open next Wednesday it will be on a moribund collection of the products of the county from farm and home. It will be something beside a more carnival. The degeneracy of fairs has been noticeable in the past several years when a collection of amusement tents and exhibits have had a scant background of farm products and a few head of live stock with a mob of insistent vendors attempting to derive excess profit from wares
generally as useless as they were evanescent.
Gambling of the insidious and tin horn variety with a certainty of margin for the operator, has been another "feature" of fairs which can well
be dispensed with and which will be less in evidence this year all over the country, owing to an educated and awakened public opinion on the subject. It is to be hoped that both weather and the number of visitors at the Rock county fair will be all that the patriotic men and women who have worked hard for the success of the institution have anticipated. The activities of the officials and others personally interested give promise of the best exhibit we have had oppor-

GOLF IS STILL A SPORT

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

Washington—Golf enthusiasts throughout the country are rejoicing over the result of the recent open championship tournament in the belief that it demonstrated that golf is still a sport and will continue to be essentially a sport. There was a growing feeling that the game was being commercialized too much and that something should be done to call a halt on the clearly defined tendency to coin golfing skill into money.
That something was done in the open tournament, it is believed, and it was done by a youth from Atlanta who had the skill, the stamina and the daring to prove that an amateur can beat the best of the professionals the men who make a business of playing golf.

It would have been worth at least $50,000 to Cruikshank to have won the big event, staged over the difficult course at Inwood, N. Y. It was not worth a nickel to "Bobby" Jones to win it, but the satisfaction he will get out of his triumph will mean more to him than any amount of money, for the young man from Georgia is a genuine sportsman.

It is much as if an amateur were to knock Jack Dempsey for a row of ash cans and acquire the heavyweight championship. Prize fighting would not be so entirely a money game for some time after a thing of that sort happened.
Of course the purse, or money prize for the golf premiership is not $50,000 or any substantial part of the sum. However, the winner, if he is a professional, finds that money fairly falls into his lap as long as he can hold his title. In the first place he is certain of an engagement from some wealthy club at a fancy salary, with nothing to do but play golf. The club gets its money's worth in having the champion known as its professional—playing under its colors as it were.

Next the winner finds that clubs all over the country want him for exhibition matches and will hang up fat purses and pay him big fees for contesting for them. Thus he can arrange a barnstorming tour that will cover the entire country and occupy all his time save that which he gives to playing in the dozen or so big tournaments that are held during the year. Such a four nets many thousands of dollars.

Meanwhile the champion garners juicy commissions for using a certain kind of golf ball,
and for exploiting certain makes of clubs, and while he is on the crest of the wave he always becomes one of the literati, writing—or at least signing—articles for newspapers and magazines
that are paid for at top prices.

One of the leading professionals even gathered unto himself a wealthy wife, and while it is not to be thought that she was attracted to him by his golf title alone, it is altogether probable that he would never have met her if he had not been a champion.

On the other hand, the amateur who wins the golfing crown gets nothing but glory out of his achievement. He can not touch the money prize in the tournament, but must take prize.
If he plays exhibition matches he cannot accept fees, but must even pay his own expenses, and of course he can not accept commissions from the manufacturers of or dealers in clubs and balls. He may, if he is so inclined, write a book to tell the world what he knows about the ancient and honorable game, or syndicate a series of newspaper articles, but even that sort of thing is frowned upon in amateur circles.

An amateur title holder might, of course, turn professional, if he wanted or needed the money
so much that he would sacrifice his amateur status.
No better evidence is needed of the value of the open title to a professional than is to be found in the size of the entry list at the Inwood tournament. There were more than 350 contestants, and only a handful of these were amateurs. Indeed, it has come to pass that every professional who can afford the expense is keen to take a whirl at the title. Not more than a dozen of those at Inwood were figured as probable winners, but golf is a game in which the unexpected happens and every one of them thought he had a chance. It is possible for any player who has attained a certain degree of proficiency to play a round or a series of rounds in unbeatable form, and they all dream of the miracle—the rainbow of the championship, at the end of which is the pot of gold.

"Bobby" Jones, who now wears the title for which any professional would have given his eye teeth, is an average looking fellow, with dark hair, a friendly smile, and a friendly and other great English players have said that he is the finest amateur golfer and the greatest shotmaker in the world, and they ought to know.
Certainly his record bears them out. In the last four open tournaments in this country he has averaged a fraction under 74 strokes for every 18-hole round, 18 in all, and that is a record that has never been equaled in contests of that character. Walter Hagan, rated as the best of the tournament playing professionals, is 14
strokes behind "Bobby" in his total for those same four open events.

Young Jones made his appearance in national events in 1916 in the national amateur, when he was but 14 years of age, and he has been close to the head of the list in every one of the big contests since. But until this last struggle he has never been able to annex one of the major titles, and among those who follow the game there had come to be a belief or a tradition that he couldn't win. To put it bluntly, they said that "Bobby" didn't have the "board"
to play through a grueling championship, and emerge a victor.

Even at Inwood it seemed that these critics might be right, for the Atlanta youth certainly "cracked" when he had the title within his grasp. In his final round, if he could have played the last three holes in par, four strokes
each, he had the championship all wrapped up and tucked away in his bag, but he took two bad drives on the 16th and 17th holes and then a stroke behind "Bobby" the 18th, which made it impossible for Cruikshank to tie him.

However, "Bobby" vindicated himself splendently in the play-off. He and Cruikshank were all even coming to the fateful 18th and, on his second shot, the youngster had to decide whether to play safe for a sure tie and a possible win or play boldly for the pin and a sure win. His ball was in a bad lie and the pin was almost 200 yards away, with a dangerous water hazard intervening, near the green.
Right there "Bobby" demonstrated that his heart was all it should be. It took courage of a high order to essay the difficult shot and skill of the same degree to negotiate it, but he did it!
It earned "Bobby" Jones a place among the immortals of golf, and it will be talked about wherever and whenever tournament tales are retold for years to come.

JUST FOLKS

MINDING THE BABY

He came to the door and he signaled to me
With his hand on his lips, very quiet to be.
His face was a picture of careworn despair.
As though tragedy dreadful had ventured in there.

His hair was awry and his eyes had a wild
look and strange, like a man by some horror defiled.

"What's the matter?" I asked as alarmed as could be.

"Hush! I am minding the baby!" said he.

He tiptoed me in to the furthestmost room.
"I'm sorry it's you," he began in the gloom.

"No, I don't mean just that—I am glad you are here."

But I thought when you rang—Oh, my brain
isn't clear.

I don't know what I am saying with so much
to do!

I wasn't expecting a visit from you.
And her mother, I wanted. I thought it was she.

And—I am minding the baby," said he.

"Did you ever mind one?" I asked him not
"You have never stayed home to see the mother could go."

You don't know the fear to be left all alone
With a poor helpless babe, and that baby your own?"

I'll tell you. I've suffered the terrors of death.
Not ten minutes ago she was holding her breath,
And I thought she was dying—that's awful to see."

When you are minding the baby," said he.

I tried to assure him that all babies cry.
But I couldn't remove that wild look from his eyes.

And all I could get him to answer or say
was: "I never have spent such a terrible day—
I wish she were home! Did she go very far?"

"No, just to the store, but you know how they are!"

And you don't know how long twenty minutes
can be.

When you are minding the baby," said he.

Who's Who Today

GOV. WILLIAM E. SWEET
The successful presidential candidate in 1924
will be the man who has a tangible, definite program for bettering the conditions of the farmer.

That is the view of Gov. William E. Sweet of Colorado, known as "the farmers' governor."

Sweet had been in the bond business in Denver for many years before opening his campaign last year for election as governor and the "big business candidate" tag was hung on him by his opponents. He has since then been antagonistic now admit that he has shown no leaning toward big business. He is even called a "radical."

The two most important advantages of Sweet's campaign are his long experience in the business of farming, and his technical and acquired by a study of their problems an insight into the conditions they face.

An interesting feature of the vote for Sweet
was that 23,000 ballots cast in the gubernatorial election showed a vote for Sweet and for no
one else on the tickets.

HISTORY OF TODAY

TODAY'S EVENTS.
Today is the national independence day of Peru.
Nine years ago today the hour of the world's great world conflict was launched in Vienna with a declaration that a state of war existed between Austria and Prussia.

Senator Couzens of Michigan calls for Europe
today to make a personal investigation of forest conservation in Germany and the other continental countries.

No More War and Universal Disarmament declarations are to be held all over the world today and tomorrow to commemorate the anniversary of the outbreak of the Great War.

TODAY'S ANNIVERSARIES.
1566—The French and English, for the last time invaded northern New York.
1829—Commodore William B. Smith, the father of naval instruction in the United States, died in Philadelphia. Born at Princeton, N. J., May 7, 1774.

1862—The first official trial of a railway mail car took place on the Hannibal and St. Joseph railway.

1885—Sir Moses Montefiore, known as the greatest of Jewish philanthropists, died in England at the age of 101.

1920—A statue of Abraham Lincoln was unveiled in London.

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY.
Premier Lloyd George stated it was the who had first proposed that the League of Nations be made an integral part of the peace treaty.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO
July 28, 1883—Colored people of this city
all go to Elgin August 1 to join in the festivities celebrating the anniversary of emancipa-

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

PURINS

Scientifically trained physicians who know something about mel-abolism and its importance to disease,
find it necessary in the treatment of many conditions like auto-intoxication, gout, Bright's disease, that tired feeling, run down condition, nervousness, etc., to determine the nitrogen balance. That is to say, they estimate accurately the relative proportion of nitrogen containing foods ingested, taken into the system, by the patient on a certain day, and compare this with the total amount of nitrogen compounds eliminated from the body. In health a definite balance is maintained. In disease the balance is frequently upset, and needs careful adjustment.
Purins are nitrogen containing food elements derived from cells or their nuclei. Some foods are rich in purins, some foods are pure in purins and
some foods contain no purins at all.
Purins, of course, are wholesome and essential in the diet of a normal individual. Still, a great deal of ill-health is due to excessive purins, due
or in other words, to faulty nitrogen balance.

Purins containing foods are but one source of that poisonous but not nearly pathological compound called uric acid. An individual on a strictly purin free diet still eliminates uric acid; it is present in the urine (not acid but a compound of uric acid and water) and in the blood. Uric acid is a normal substance in blood and in urine. Part of it is derived from the natural wear and tear of life; the elimination of uric acid is a fuel, for instance for muscular work.

In a healthy adult of average stature,
the normal amount of uric acid eliminated in the urine when a purin free diet is taken is between five and 15 grains daily (5 to 10 grains). Under the same conditions the normal amount of uric acid in the blood is between one and two milligrams for each cubic centimeter. Without rigid control of the patient's diet for three days preceding the tests, the tests are worthless.

Purins are found in:
1. Broad, oatmeal, rice, sago, cap-sica, bananas, pineapples, peaches,
grapes, pears, plums, cranberries,
oranges, apricots, huckleberries, apples, walnuts, hazelnuts, almonds,
cucumbers, cabbage, turnips, onions,
tomatoes, milk, cream, butter, eggs
or Swiss or Gervais or Requefort cheeses, eggs.

2. Cream or ordinary American cheeses, caviar, lettuce, radishes, cauliflower, celery, asparagus, string
beans, potatoes, carrots.

3. Any harm can be done in taking olive oil to put on flesh? (B. M.)
Answer—Not if your liver oil.
And olive oil of butters are more likely to increase your weight.

Another Reader Captured B. T.
Answer—Yes, I am telling whether a child has adenoids, and whether the tonsils ought to be removed. I have been told yes and no.
(Mrs. F. M.)

Answer—Yes, have the child examined by a physician. The doctor can feel adenoid enlargement with his finger; or see the image of the adenoid body in his throat mirror, and determine whether removal is advisable.
So many people write me that they have had tonsils, yet there is no reward offered for his capture and no charge against him save that he is an inevitable prevaricator.

Q. Was there a time when a part of New York city was given over to quarter sovereignty? J. R.

A. The libraries of the New York city library took up the following question: "All the region north of Forty-second street was a rocky neighborhood known by squatters, who put up a great battle with the city hall, and the city hall was a great battle."
Squatters had a precarious existence and depended on goats for a considerable part of their existence. They were white, and they were New Yorkers for many years.

Q. Is it true that a spring of excellent drinking water made its appearance at Andersonville, prison
during the civil war? H. B.

A. The appearance of the spring at Andersonville prison is generally accepted as a fact. Its appearance is described by various eye-witnesses who were inmates of the prison at the time.

Q. Why does glass expand to the sun often turn violet in color? H. C.

A. The violet color is due to the generally attributed to a change in the state of oxidation of the man-ganese in the glass, which is produced by ultraviolet and actinic light.
This effect is not characteristic of any locality, but may be found anywhere.
It is especially noticeable in glass
bells of art glass.

Q. What is the best way to take the leather stains out of the feet of white stockings? M. H.

A. Dip the stained part in a mixture of one part of saturated solution of oxalic acid and ten parts water. Transfer immediately to a bowl of clear water containing a half teaspoonful of ammonia, then rinse in clear water.

Q. Which State has the most kindergartens? H. J. F.

A. California leads the nation in providing kindergartens for its children. In 1913 a law was passed there providing for the establishment of such schools upon petition of parents.

A Free Automobile
Road Book

The pleasure of that automobile trip you are contemplating this summer will depend on whether or not you go to the right roads.
There will be all the difference between smooth riding and bumps, potholes and potholes, and a road between good roads and bad.

Let our Washington Information

Financing a Public Utility Rates charged for a public service are really unimportant as compared with the larger question of financing the industry. The reason is that a public service industry cannot go forward as it should unless it can establish a credit to attract the vast sums of money needed for extensions to keep pace with the growing service demands of its customers. And that credit cannot be established without adequate rates. Even the most inexperienced investor is not willing to risk his money in a losing business.

AT LAST, a pattern so simple that a child can use it.
Thousands of children, as well as women are learning to sew with the new McCall Printed Pattern.
You can see for yourself how easy it is to cut out a dress. The printed lines are to guide your scissors accurately and easily. It is far simpler to follow a straight printed cutting line than the wobbly edge of a pattern.
The names of the pattern pieces are printed in clear, bold type so that there is no bother of figuring out which piece is which. It's easy to lay on the material.
If you have never cut out a dress before, try your hand

The Riddle of the Spinning Wheel

By M. E. and T. W. HANSHEW

Being an Exploit in the Career of Hamilton Cleek, Detective Copyright, 1922, by Doubleday, Page & Co., and published by arrangement with McClure Newspaper Syndicate of New York City.

SYNOPSIS.

In deadly fear of the lives of her father and others in the Duggan home at Asyon castle, David Duggan seeks help from Scotland Yard. Hamilton Cleek, under the name of Deland, takes up the attempt to solve the mystery of the "spinning wheel" on occasions and without the aid of human hands starts running. Inevitably a death follows. The head of the house is the old trawler Sir Andrew Duggan, his son by a first wife, the daughter and a second wife, a French woman and her son, Cyril. It is believed that the wife is plotting for the death of all in order that her son may be the heir of the estate. Cleek starts his investigations. He makes a number of acquaintances and finds that Rosa, the oldest son, an electrical expert. He has made his finger by lighting the house with electricity. It is believed that the second wife is attempting to have Rosa disinherited and another son, Cyril, made heir. At a family gathering the elder Duggan is slain while seated in his chair in a moment when the lights go out. Maude Duggan tells Cleek, (Deland) about it.

"Oh—caught him running as hard as he could from the direction of the lawn beyond this window, and fell plump into him as the best way to attract his attention," turned Cleek serenely. "I thought it strange that he should be there at such a time. And he looked half-scared out of his wits, too. Expected me to call the household, I thought. He was an officious young chap, I must say—but I've a sneaking liking for him, all the same. Do you think he did the shooting, then?"

"Not a doubt of it," Mr. Narkom was emphatic.

"Oh! And why do you suppose?"

"Um—ah! Well, that's got to be discovered yet. Never know, Cleek; there might be some hidden business in this affair in which this Cyril is involved. Anyhow, I doubt him—tremendously. Didn't ring true, I thought. Rather too noisy and all that."

"And you believe in the adage that 'empty vessels make the most sound.' I take it?" rejoined Cleek with a smile. "Well, perhaps you're right. Only I wouldn't call that young gentleman an 'empty vessel' anyhow. This evening will elucidate matters a little. For I'm going to remove that muffling for the noise and substitute another one. And it ought to prove quite an enlightening job, too!"

So saying, he swung out of the courtyard of the house, vaulting the window lightly, and reaching a helter-skelter hand up to Narkom, who came through less easily, perspiring at every pore. And suddenly Cleek's finger went up to his lips, and with a hasty "Hush!" for his wheezy comrade, he drew back into the screen of the bushes, standing as still as a statue, all eyes, while the amazing thing came to pass!

CHAPTER XVI

"TENS!"

Did you see that, Mr. Narkom? Did you see that?" rapped out Cleek excitedly.

"Yes, yes," replied Narkom, who had stopped free from the detaining bushes and beckoned the Superintendent from his hiding-place. "Recognize the cut of that lady's chin? And notice anything else about her?"

"Only that she looked like that Lady Paula Duggan who was here a few minutes ago," rejoined Mr. Narkom. "But what had she been doing? Was she here to see the—black thing over her head?"

"Sort of, yes, wasn't it?" Could not see her face through—and she was looking at me as if she were a mad dog. But what a dear fellow! Where were your eyes?" snapped Cleek with a hasty exclamation. "Off somewhere where she doesn't want to be seen. And as this courtyard leads out into the back-woods of the place, to that forest ridge which girls sit about, and thence on to the Great Tree Road as it's called, who's meeting someone whom she doesn't want anyone to see—and doesn't want to be discovered in the act, either."

"Hello! here's Dollops at last! Just the very chap I was waiting for. Here, lad, there's work for you. Run along and track down that lady in black who is disappearing so rapidly up there by the right-hand side of the hedge—and keep her pretty close to it, too, for shelter from the watching eye in the household. Gad! lucky thing we came out this way, Mr. Narkom, and caught her napping. She never thought of that, I suppose. Seems a woman of one idea all through, doesn't she? The beautiful, sleepy-eyed creature I've met her kind before. All purr and softness when she's a friend—and a perfect she-devil when an enemy. Now, then, Dollops, your legs are nimble enough, but don't on any account let her know you're doing it. And I'll follow in a moment or two. But don't let her get away without discovering where she's gone to. Mr. Narkom, you wait here, will you, and keep watch in case she returns, or any one else in the know follows her, while I nip up to the lady's boudoir, and enquire what she has gone to. I'll dare swear she's lying down with a headache and has given orders not to be dis-

And his imaginings proved to be correct, for that was exactly the case. For Miss McCall, encountered in the outer passage from her lady's room, with coat and hat on, and pulling on a pair of neatly darned cotton gloves, met him, blushed like the timid little thing she was, and answered him in all faith that what she spoke was true.

"Lady Paula? I believe she's lying down, Mr. Deland. She told me on no account to disturb her, and to let everyone else know that she wished a couple of hours' quiet," she said in her soft, gentle voice, lifting her timid eyes to his face. "It's been a shock, I suppose—her face and voice hardened—but she'll get over it—as she gets over everything else that happens to her. She said she'd be down for tea, however; and Master Cyril has gone off with Mr. Duggan and his fiancée for a walk round the laboratory. It's—It's all very sad, Mr. Deland, isn't it?"

"Very," rejoined Cleek. "Very sad, indeed. For a house divided against itself, Miss McCall—you know the rest of the biblical quotation. And I'm afraid that is exactly what will happen in this case. Oh, well, lying down, is she? Then I won't disturb her. Going out?"

"Yes. Just along to Mr. Deland's cottage, at the bottom of the drive," she responded a trifle drearly. "Mr. Tavish and I, you know, are—engaged. I have less with him now, and try to do some of his mending. It's hard for a man to live alone, as he does."

"Indeed it is. Engaged? Then may I offer you my congratulations, Miss McCall? I won't detain you any longer, as I know you must be anxious to get along. A little freedom in the fresh air will do you good. We shall meet again later, I've no doubt. Good-by."

Household Hints

MENU HINT
Breakfast.
Oat Flakes (cooked with seedless raisins or dates).
Top Milk.
Buttered Graham Toast.
Coffee.
Luncheon.
Bacon Omelet. Muffins.
Pear and Cheese Salad.
Tea.
Dinner.
Baked Ham End. Spinach.
Bread and Butter.
Baked Potatoes.
Brown Baked Apples.
Peach Pie. Coffee.

TODAY'S RECIPES
Bacon and Egg Omelet—Dice three thin slices of bacon and cook until crisp. Pour over it the following well mixed: Three eggs well beaten, one quarter cup milk, one tablespoon four, one-quarter teaspoon salt. Brown carefully, fold and serve very hot.
Brown Baked Apples—Pare apples and cut in chunks, rather large; sprinkle generously with brown sugar, about three-quarters cup sugar to six apples, one tablespoon butter, and one-half cup milk. Bake in covered dish (a small butter crock is excellent for this) until soft; remove cover to brown.

Baked Ham End—One may buy a baked ham and much less than the center cut; and prepared in this way it is very good: Boil ham slowly until tender, skin and rub with a mixture of bread crumbs and brown sugar, whole cloves stuck through liberally. Bake on hour in slow oven. Use the leftover ham for the following day's lunch, cased on loaf or minced in an omelet or as a sandwich filling.

SUGGESTIONS
Pink Ribbon—You have all made safety pins of ribbon, but did you ever try making them of strips of cretonne? Use goods with a small figure and crochet over the brass rings with some mercerized crochet cotton which matches with your material. They are quite as attractive as those made of ribbon and much cheaper, as several can be made for a few cents.

Paper Bags for Bulbs—Stout paper bags are almost a necessity in the late summer when gladioli bulbs and other summer bulbs are to be put away. Paste labels on the outside, and hang the bags where it is both dark, dry and moderately cool.

LITTLE HINTS
Clean the oil paintings with a wool cloth moistened with olive oil.
Fine ashes mixed with turpentine are splendid for cleaning brass and steel.
Honey and cream cheese make a tempting spread for toasted English muffins.
A little gasoline in the water when scrubbing floors will quickly eradicate grease spots.
Tears and holes should be mended before laundering to prevent the rubbing making them larger.

Here's a Secret

about some well-dressed folks you know

HAVE you wondered why some people, with incomes no larger than yours, always look so well dressed?

Here's the secret—they buy good clothes to begin with, and then they depend on modern dry-cleaning to keep these clothes looking their best, over the longest possible period of time. They pay no more; they have better clothes; they look better, and, of course, they feel better.

Why not try their plan? Phone, and we'll send a representative.

Heart and Home Problems

Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young woman in the twenties and have been going with a man a few years older than myself for the past two and a half years. We have always had an understanding that we would be married this spring, but he keeps putting me off.

I love him and he certainly loves me, but he has the idea that I must wait for him as long as he wants me. I feel that we have gone together long enough.

We often have little misunderstandings and he tells me I must go with whomever I wish and I should not expect him down again. I don't quite understand him, for he always comes back again. He is jealous at times and often tells me I dress too flashy. Please give me your advice.

EMILY JANE.

The young man may have a very good reason for not marrying at present, and if such is the case you are certainly making a mistake by trying to force him into marriage when he feels he is not prepared for the responsibility. You have not told me his explanation for the delay, but I presume he feels he is not financially able. It certainly takes a lot of money to start housekeeping, and I would advise you to wait until next spring rather than start out handicapped with debts from purchasing furniture and the various other things necessary to go to housekeeping.

My understanding ought to be avoided whenever possible. There is nothing like a series of little quarrels to kill love. If you really want a happy and harmonious home life after marriage you will make the effort to get along without misunderstandings creeping in. There is a general belief that "true love never runs smooth." True love tries to protect the feelings of the loved one and dreads a quarrel more than anything else. Quarrels are absolutely unnecessary where there is self-control.

Try not to make your fiance jealous, because it is a miserable and unhappy feeling. Perhaps he really feels your clothes are too showy, and his sense of good taste makes him wish you would be more moderate in your attire.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 16. I have not been happy for over five years, with my parents. They have been fighting all the time. My father left us last year and we felt better, but he heard my mother went with a young man and came again. They made an awful fight and then they had up again, but they had a big fight again yesterday.

I can't stand it. What would you advise me to do? Often I wish that I could leave home.

LOVELY FRICKLES.

Since you are only 16 years old, there is little you can do except to remain at home unless you have the consent of your mother to live in the home of your chum. Perhaps if you tell your mother how unhappy you are, she will be better for you, because by that time you will be able to work and choose a place in which to live.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care of their children of any age, or on any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

Miss M. B.: I appreciated your letter so much, and think that what I am doing is small comfort to you. You are doing just right with the baby. The milk should contain in addition to the barley gruel and milk, one ounce of sugar to the whole day's feedings. You did not tell me the baby's weight, but the cream will be perfectly perfect the formula is, but if she is contented and gaining from four to six ounces a week, you can be sure it is all right.

Would you use one of the last-lets we offer for use within the next month or so. A self-addressed, stamped envelope will bring it to you.

CUCUMBER PREPARATIONS
Cucumbers being cheap and plentiful now, it is an excellent time to make yourself some cucumber preparations for present and future use. The first, to make is Cucumber Milk. This is made by peeling a cucumber, removing the seeds, and cutting it into small pieces. It is then put in a mortar and ground with a pestle. The resulting mixture is then strained through a fine cloth, and the liquid is then mixed with an equal amount of alcohol, and this makes the three ounces of essence. The essence is then mixed with the juice, then add the oil and benzoin. You'll find it easier to mix the ingredients in a bowl, and stir and beat until you've a creamy fluid. Put it in small bottles, keep in the dark. The skin absorbs it readily. It is delicious to use.

CUCUMBER MILK
Oil of Sweet Almonds. 4 ounces.
Fresh Cucumber Juice. 3 ounces.
Essence of Cucumber. 3 ounces.
Powdered Castile Soap. 1 ounce.
Tincture of Benzoin. 1 drachm.

The cucumber juice is made by slicing cucumbers thin, boiling them in a very little water, and when mushy putting them through a sieve and then a cloth. Make more than 10 ounces of this. Ten ounces go into your formula, one and one-half ounces of the surplus is mixed with the same amount of alcohol, and this makes the three ounces of essence.

These preparations have a quality and virtue that only the very costliest ready-made lotions possess. It pays to make your own creams and lotions, for the satisfaction of knowing what's in them.

Blue Eyes—To bring out these golden tints in your hair, try egg shampoo and sun baths, or henna shampoo.

You can make your eyelashes longer and perhaps a very little darker if you rub them with a little castor oil. The dark lashes and brows would be a charming contrast to your light hair.

Anna Mary—One of the best astringents for a flabby skin is ice. The place under the chin should be rubbed with ice for about 10 minutes every day.

Catharine W. G.—If you cannot go to a specialist, the only way to remove superfluous hair from the face is to pull out the coarse hairs by

Dinner Stories

The youngster had thrown a stick at her sister, a year or two last senior.

"Katherine," said daddy, "did you throw that stick at your sister?"

"Yes, daddy," was the defiant reply.

"Because," instantly replied the youngster, with her eyes flashing, "afterwards she hit me."

"I don't like the wind," protested the newcomer to the cow country plaintively. "It blows so hard my conformation gets right back down my throat. And I've got to talk. I'm a book agent!"

"You don't like the wind?" interjected the Old Timer. "Why, man, the wind clears the range—gives the cattle a chance to graze. Why, the wind's great for this country."

"And the heat," protested the newcomer. "It's awful. Now I—"

"The heat?" countered the Old Timer. "Why, it's kind of hot sometimes. But summer ain't only a month long. Why, the heat's the best part of it."

"But the dust!" insisted the newcomer, feebly. "The dust's awful, now isn't it?"

"Dust? Say, stranger, you don't know nothing. Why the dust's necessary!"

He turned from the tenderfoot in evident sorrow, and walked with a dazed look on his face.

"Why," he said over his shoulder, "all these disadvantages make the west!"—Life.

Slump Follows Early Strength in Stock Market

[By Associated Press.]—New York—Stock and bond prices pointed upward on dull trading during the early part of this week's market, but slumped again at the close of the week on heavy selling of professional origin. Commodity prices, particularly of wheat and cotton, sustained a sharp break, the former touching new low quotations for the year on reports of poor export prospects, and the latter yielding on reports of favorable weather in the cotton belt which would make for a larger crop than originally estimated.

Special attention was again paid during the week to the foreign situation, but there was no disposition to discount possible developments pending the publication of the French reply to the British note on reparations. German marks continued their course toward the vanishing point, being quoted at less than $1 a million following the announcement that German printing presses were now grinding them out at the rate of more than ten trillion daily.

Oil shares continued to feel the depressing effects of heavy over-production in the western fields which has more than made up for the loss in Mexican output. Heavy liquidation took place during the week in the shares of North-western railroads, Northern Pacific and Great Northern preferred, selling at their lowest levels since 1896.

Other roads failed to make any response to the excellent June earnings statement.

Money continues relatively easy. Several large institutions are reported to have been switching lately from short time notes to long term government bonds, this being construed as indicating that they expected a long period of easy money rates.

The next best thing to being rich is to have people think you are.

Brain Power Behind Public Utility Service

When the average person invests his money in a gold prospect, or in an oil possibility, or in the development of an invention, or even in a new industry, he makes a bet on somebody's guess that it will turn out well.

When the average user of a Public Utility Service, or the average investor supplying such a service, makes use of its product, or puts his money into it to get an income, he has behind the service rendered, or the investment made, the genius and research of generations.

Did it ever strike you, gas user, or electric light and power customer, how much genius you get for your dollar? Or how much romance there has been in the upbuilding of the service given you, on the instant, when you call for it?

Do you know how much accumulated brain power is serving you?

Did it ever strike you, investor in public utilities, what refinements in scientific investigation, what certainties of results, what accuracy of accounting, are marshalled behind your dollars, your shares of stock?

Do you realize how much brain power is at work keeping your investment safe and remunerative?

The Public Utilities are the results of the visions of genius, of the heartbreaking of research, of the accidental and deliberate conclusions of science, of the wonders of invention, of the faith which consumer and provider, capitalist and worker have in the American people.

Don't Let It Slip Through Your Hands!

Of course, money doesn't grow on trees. But if it did you wouldn't stand like this, smiling as it fell through your fingers. You'd have your hat off catching it—or a wheelbarrow.

The point is that when we have to work hard for money, we should think hard before we spend it all. Don't let it slip through your fingers. Save some.

Financial Poison in the Mails

Vendors of "blue-sky" stock not only make personal calls and use the telephone, but they flood the mails with their alluring, get-rich-quick appeals. Frequently they can make a clean-up in a district before Uncle Sam is aware of their crooked work. By the time a fraud order is issued, to stop their use of the mails, the money is lost.

These "come on" letters as they are termed, all tell of wonderful opportunities to make a fortune through a small investment. The large profits made by original investors, in what are now large companies, are cited as a lure for your dollars. A return post card is enclosed. It's mailing brings a salesman, post haste.

Legitimate investment brokers also use the mails to give information about perfectly sound securities. It is sometimes difficult to tell one from the other. Therefore, if you are interested in any of these offers, it is a safe plan to always

TO MARKET GRADED APPLES UNDER COUNTY POOL PLAN

Fruit growers in Rock county are going to improve upon their pool methods of marketing introduced a year ago. Every apple grower in the county, regardless of whether he is a member of one of the spray rings or not, is urged to market his fruit under the county grading plan. Rock county grown apples, graded and uniform in quality, will be on the market at Janesville and other cities of the county, starting Monday. They will be sold at existing market prices and handled generally by local merchants cooperating in the county system.

On two days of the week—Monday and Friday—the farmers will bring in their apples to the old county jail building, to be used by the Wiley Seed company. The ap-

Effect of Wheat Drop Overdrawn, Meredith Holds

(By Associated Press.)

Des Moines — The general effect of the drop in wheat prices to below a dollar a bushel has been exaggerated in the minds of many people both as regards its effect upon farmers generally and upon business other than farming, declared E. T. Meredith, secretary of agriculture during President Wilson's administration in a statement to the Associated Press.

"Those that grow wheat exclusively or nearly so, and consequently are dependent upon the return from their wheat crop almost entirely for their income," he said, "have had their incomes cut by the recent decline in wheat prices and the seriousness of the situation, so far as they are concerned, is a matter of interest and importance to every citizen of the nation, labor and business being concerned as well as the farmer. Certainly steps should be taken to prevent such a situation being again forced upon a group of people who are producing one of our staple products."

"The entire income American farmers receive from wheat represents but 10 percent of the total income of the farmer as a group. Then, that commodity which represents 10 percent of the total income is only 10 percent lower in price than it was a year ago. It appears, then, that so far as the price of wheat alone is concerned, the present price decline affects the total income of our farmers by only one percent."

SOME OF THE RECENT IMPORTANT EVENTS OF THE WORLD TOLD IN PICTURES ON THIS PAGE

Mary McCann and Patrick Ponsoll. County jail at Warren, Pa., now holds two prisoners where one was held before. The second is Mary McCann, twenty, who fired her fiancé, Patrick Ponsoll, from a cell at the point of a revolver. She wore a mask at the time. The pair fled in the girl's sedan, but both were captured a short time later in a barn not far from the scene of the escape.

Mrs. Henry Moskowitz. Mrs. Henry Moskowitz may not be Gov. Al Smith's right-hand man, but she is his right-hand woman. She has been dubbed the "Colonel House" of the Smith administration. She is well known in New York political circles.

Philippine council of state. Left to right: Senate President Manuel L. Quezon, Governor General Leonard Wood, Vice Governor Eugene A. Gilmore, Speaker of House of Representatives Manuel Roxas, Secretary of Interior J. P. Laurel, Secretary of Finance Alberto Barreto, Secretary of Commerce and Communication Salvador Laguda. The other two members are Abad Santos, secretary of justice, and Rafael Corpus, secretary of agriculture and natural resources.

Miss Eugenia Gilbert. Miss Eugenia Gilbert, titian-haired Los Angeles beauty, today is envied by every movie-struck girl in the country. Of all California's fair daughters she was adjudged the most perfect and awarded a prize of $4,000 as the best type of screen beauty.

Mrs. Julia Coyne. Police are waiting for consciousness to unseal the lips of Patrick Coyne, in a Pittsburgh hospital with both legs off, and reveal the secret of the slaying of his wife, Julia. Police believe he can explain the death of the woman whose body was found across the bed in her home battered and with bullet wounds, by her father when he came to notify her of the accident in which her husband lost both legs.

Mrs. E. P. Brainerd. Mrs. E. P. Brainerd inaugurated and now heads a department for women in the American bank of Los Angeles, California. Separate tellers are employed to wait upon the fair sex so that they are not compelled to stand in line with the men.

Commandant Emma Westbrook. Commandant Westbrook, now in her eightieth year, is the only survivor of the original eight militants who planted the flag of the Salvation Army in the U. S. in 1890. She refuses to obey orders to retire from active service and continues her daily routine.

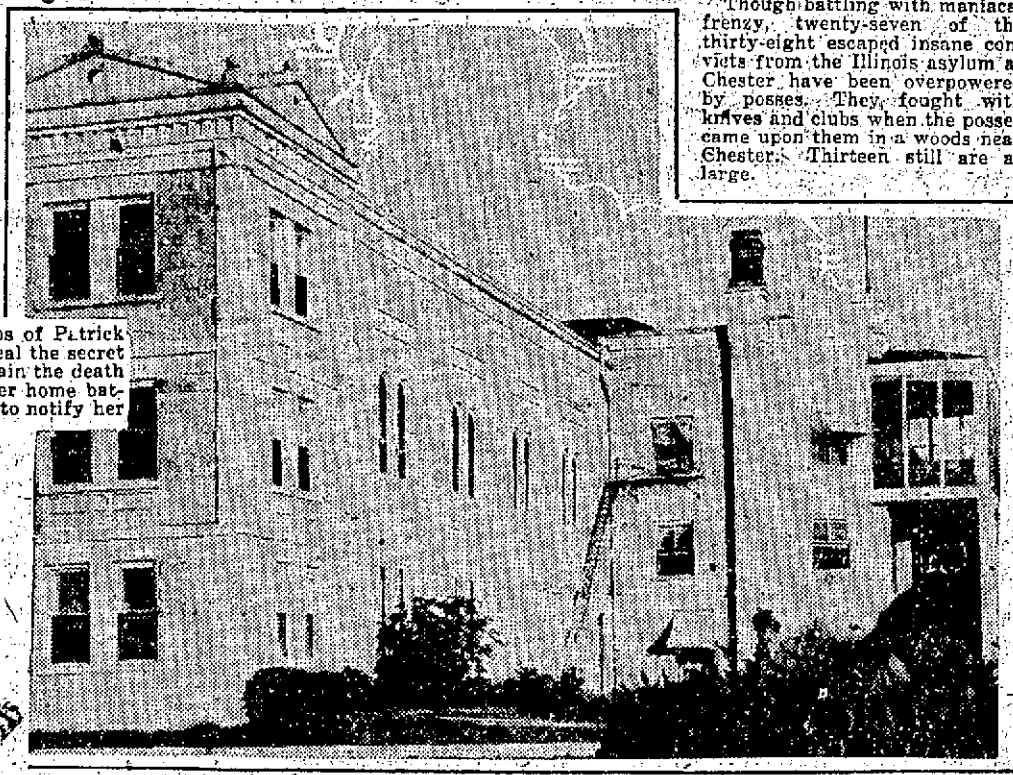

Leon Cadore. Leon J. Cadore, Brooklyn native, has been released to the White Sox via the waiver route. If he performs half as well for the Sox as his brother castoff, Sherry Smith, is performing for the Indians of Cleveland, Manager Robinson may kick himself all over Ebbets' field.

Mary Lawando, twenty, and, inset, her mother, Anna Lawando, her head bandaged after beating girl is said to have administered. Mary Lawando, known in the vicinity of Wausau, Wis., as the "Swamp Angel," now is facing trial on a charge of assaulting her mother and beating her within an inch of her life. She took refuge in the swamp near Mosinee and evaded capture until hunger forced her out to seek food. She says "something made her" beat her step-mother.

Princess Fahmy Bey, convicted of the murder of her husband, Prince Ali Kamel-Fahmy Bey. A London jury has convicted Princess Marie Fahmy Bey, a French woman, of the murder of her Egyptian husband, Prince Ali Kamel-Fahmy Bey, in the Savoy hotel. Jealousy is said to have been the motive.

Asylum for criminal insane at Chester, Ill., from which thirty-eight insane criminals escaped.

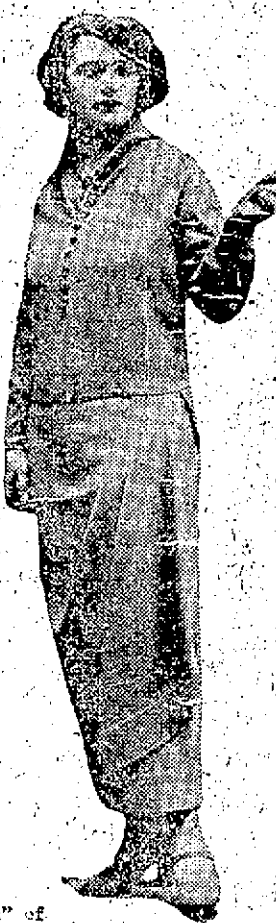

President Harding. Silhouetted against the setting sun, President Harding is leaning over the rail of the U. S. S. Henderson weighing the mass of problems which his trip through Alaska is presenting. The photo was taken as he and the presidential party steamed away from Wrangell to their next stop. The Harding appreciates Alaska's need of wise counsel and help is shown by his serious face.

Countess Therese Haugetz. Ex-Archduke Eugene of Austria once took vows of celibacy. But that was before he met Countess Therese Haugetz, Austrian beauty. Now he has applied to the pope for release from his vows so he can marry her.

So-called "Indelicate displays" of lingerie seen in newspaper pictures of women tennis players have unspeakably shocked staid citizens of dear old England. So strong is the feeling that there is talk of barring photographers from tennis meets or restraining them from taking pictures "of an objectionable nature." In the meantime this young woman has solved the problem by adopting trousers.

The frock illustrated is an attractive one for early fall. It is made of tan dyvetyne. The blouse is slipover style and fastens with small buttons. The sleeves are wide but have a tightly fitted wrist band which fastens with the buttons. The skirt is drawn over and draped on the left side.

Why Buick is "The Standard of Comparison"

It has been a fixed Buick policy always to anticipate motoring demands by developing new and advanced features of design and construction.

This has been one of the many factors contributing to Buick's great popularity—a popularity tangibly expressed in the fact that Buick is well on its way towards the manufacture of its two-millionth motor car.

Buick recognizes it as a distinct obligation to live up to the spirit and letter of its slogan "When Better Automobiles Are Built, Buick Will Build Them".

Hints for the Motorist

Copyright, 1923, by The International Syndicate
Be Good To The Clutch

The Clutch Pedal Is Neither A Footrest Nor A Speed Control

IF THERE WERE ANY UNCLAIMED TIME left on the calendar, somebody ought to start "Kiddies To Clutches Week," during which motorists who habitually drive with their feet on their clutch-pedals should be reformed. For the "steenth time" we urge all drivers to keep their feet off this pedal except when starting, stopping or shifting gears. The average motorist, who has a clutch the parts of which can be exposed to view, will be surprised to note the effect of even a very light pedal pressure, such as he is likely to exercise unintentionally. The weight of the foot may be found enough to bring the throwout mechanism sufficiently into action to result in its rapid wear and a surprisingly light pressure will be found to release the clutch to the slipping points, when the engine is pulling hard. Persistent "clutch riding" ultimately destroys both the clutch linings and parts of the release mechanism, which latter device is designed solely for momentary and not for continuous operation. Unintentional partial clutch disengagement, that results from "riding," probably does more harm than the intentional slipping, which too many operators indulge in as a substitute for changing to a lower gear, but this latter is bad enough, terribly wearing to clutch members as well as hard on the engine.

NOISY TRANSMISSION GEARS

W. A. W. writes: The transmission gears of my car make a grinding noise, when they are in neutral, and when in high, the noise is also noticeable, although not so much so as when in second. I have emptied the case, cleaned it out with kerosene and put in fresh grease with very little benefit. What do you advise?

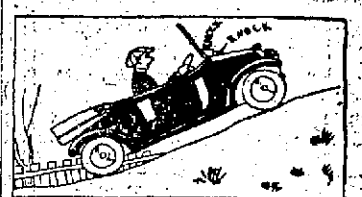

Answer: We advise you to use steam cylinder oil or some other lubricant that will flow readily in cold weather as well as warm and not to use grease and we think that your instruction book makes this same recommendation. Probably, because of using a non-fluid lubricant, especially during the winter, the bearings, especially those of the countershaft, have suffered from lack of lubrication and have worn, which accounts for the noisy operation. You can probably make any existing bearing looseness "show up" by prying the shafts with a small bar and if you find there is considerable play, you will probably find it best to have the bearings renewed or readjusted.

LOWERING COMPRESSION TO STOP "PINKING"

R. W. S. writes: The engine of my car, when using either low or high test gasoline, makes a knock, like that caused by carbon, whenever the car is climbing a steep hill. I am sure, however, that this is not a carbon knock, as the cylinders have been cleaned, as I use gas, a benzol fuel, or even a mixture of benzol and gasoline, there is no knock. Is this trouble caused by poor gasoline or what?

Answer: In a sense it may be caused by the quality of the gasoline used, in that the commercial article will not stand more than a moderate compression pressure without producing detonative effects that result in knocking. Benzol is an anti-detonant agent, like tetra-ethyl-lead and other chemical compounds which are being adopted to prevent high compression engines from "pinking". You might try the expedient of using two, instead of one cylinder head gaskets, which will raise the cylinder head slightly, thus enlarging the clearance spaces, reducing the compression pressure a little and perhaps will stop detonation of the fuel.

END PLAY IN CRANKSHAFT

G. R. C. writes: The crankshaft of my engine has nearly 1/4-inch end play. Will this do any harm?

Answer: We cannot see why it should. You do not complain of any thumping sounds from your engine, such as would result from the irregular taking up of the end play and this evidences that this lost motion results in no serious longitudinal movement of the shaft. Considerable crankshaft end play is permissible when connecting-rods and other parts are in accurate alignment, as they evidently are in this case.

Questions of general interest to the motorist will be answered by Mr. Clough in this column, space permitting. If an immediate answer is desired, enclose self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Mr. Truck Operator Use

Examine the construction of this Heavy Duty Cushion Truck Tire in our show room, and you will see—why it is the only economical tire to use for heavy duty work. Road trucks, dump trucks, logging trucks, heavy duty trucks of all kinds need this tire.

It is a real "ground gripper." Staggered cross members, divided by deep "cups," give plenty of space for deflection and heat radiation. This construction increases the resistance to skidding and slipping. The Heavy Duty Cushion is a real Non-Skid.

We all thought tire prices were exceptionally low last summer. So low, in fact, that if a tire was damaged we considered it cheaper to buy a new tire than have the old one repaired.

OUR PRICES ON RACINE TIRES ARE LOWER NOW THAN THEY WERE LAST SUMMER.

Compare our prices today with the prices of last summer.

Genuine Racine Tires	Our Prices Today	Prices Last Summer
30x3 Racine Trusty Tread Fabric	$ 9.60	$ 9.75
30x3 1/2 Racine Trusty Tread Fabric	10.50	10.65
30x3 1/2 Racine Multi-Mile Oversize Cord	14.25	14.65
32x4 Racine Multi-Mile Oversize Cord	28.80	29.15
33x4 Racine Multi-Mile Oversize Cord	29.75	30.05
35x5 Racine Multi-Mile Oversize Cord	48.80	49.25

All other sizes at proportionate prices.
Remember these are the genuine Racine Rubber Co. Fabric and Multi-Mile Cord. Don't confuse them with other tires bearing similar names or with second quality tires of standard name.

We have only one grade of tires; THE BEST. No "seconds," no "Gyp stuff" or blemished tires.

BUYING POWER

Goodyear's enormous buying power is best evidenced by its tremendous selling power. Last year Goodyear sold 19.92 per cent of all the tires sold in the United States. Think of it—nearly one-fifth of the country's tires are Goodyears, with about 175 companies manufacturing tires. That is why we can sell you Goodyears cheaper, considering the material put into them.

BUILD NOW

How often have you heard the expression "When my ship comes in I am going to do this or that" or "When luck favors me then I will undertake accomplishing certain things."

The few who are favored with legacies, who receive money other than by their own efforts, seldom apply constructive thoughts; too much money takes all the efforts and joys out of life and makes it hard to appreciate the worth-while things. It is the thrifty man or woman who adopts the saving habit, carefully considers the future and has the ability and stick-to-it-ness to make sacrifices if necessary to attain their goal, who are really happy, contented and get most out of life; these kind of folks represent the successful people you know. All around you is evidence of success, of determination to succeed, families who are happily housed in homes of their own, made a reality through conservative and continuous efforts; while on the other hand you have acquaintances who have and always will exist in homes provided by others, retained only at a monthly rental; they prefer to live up to their daily earnings, let the future care for itself and in later years condemn the world because of their self-styled misfortune.

There is an awakening time in the lives of every man and woman; it comes with the realization of old age and the thoughts of possible misfortune and adversities; it is then they make resolves for the future and come to know that the really worth-while things of life are attained only through persistent savings and consistent efforts, and when these are applied toward building or buying a home, it is then they appreciate fully the high ideal of existence.

You are never too young or too old to undertake acquiring a home. The longer you put it off the harder it is to make the start and the longer it will be before it is paid for and all your own. Surely you long for a home you can call your very own, and you are entitled to such a place, and today is the time to arrange for one.

This Model Home of Unique Design,

stucco exterior and shingle roof, reflects distinctiveness not usually found in a home so small, and the alternate room arrangement gives such a variety of conveniences that it will meet the requirements of the average family.

Study the floor plans carefully; note the many special features that are incorporated, all designed to produce most home comforts at smallest possible cost, providing modern conveniences that lessen house work.

Any information regarding plans, cost to build, etc., will be gladly given.
